Such notice shall be published by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, and a copy of the same shall be forwarded with every copy of the Official Gazette of the Northwest Territories, and shall cause a copy of such notice to be posted in the nearest post office and shall forward a copy of the said notice to a post of the Northwest Territories.

Calgary Tribune: "Things must be getting hot in Winnipeg election circles, as Dominion land agent Rowe and assistants Richards and Sutherland left on Monday to render their mite in the interests of honest government, as viewed from the standpoint of the Hon. Thos. Daly, minister of interior. Mr. James Crawford, fire brigade engineer, also left, it is said, with obtaining permission of the F. W. and L. committee. Mr. G. K. Leeson went on Sunday morning. It is said a collection was in vogue yesterday to try and procure funds to pay fares for a few others, but the collection business did not pan out very successfully, only a few of the very faithful responding."

The following general order has been posted in the Mounted police posts: The Commissioner has been directed by the Honorable the President of the Privy Council to express his appreciation of the appearance and conduct of all ranks, both on and off parade, the condition of the horses and transport, and the general efficiency of the Force, as witnessed by him under varied conditions and circumstances during his recent tour of inspection.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, NOVEMBER 27th, 1893.

IMMIGRATION.

A Montreal despatch says that an important conference on the subject of immigration was held there recently between the deputy minister of interior and representatives of the leading steamship lines and the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railways. While every one will be glad to learn that it is not the intention of the government to abandon all efforts towards securing immigration, it would be interesting to know just what part the steamship and railway companies are expected to play in this connection. Hitherto their connection with the immigration business of the government may have been profitable to them, but it certainly has not been profitable to the country, nor is it desirable that it should be continued. The plan of giving a nominally cheap transport rate to immigrants and the government making up the difference to the transport company is a transportation policy, not an immigration policy, and that has been its only redeeming feature in the past. Thousands of the people who were brought out from Europe to Canada, at a certain charge to the Canadian immigration department, have merely gone through the gulf of Canada and the loss of the United States. The Yankee idea that every immigrant is worth a certain minimum sum of money to the country in which he settles is as ridiculous as many other accepted articles of faith on political matters on the other side of the line. The value of an immigrant does not depend upon the cost of his production, but upon his own producing power, coupled with his influence for good or evil on the political and social system of the country to which he comes. The immigration system which values an immigrant simply on his ability to pay a portion of his own passage money is a pernicious system in every sense of the word, and had it not been for the relief afforded by the majority of such immigrants to Canada passing through to the States would have cost this country much dearer than it has. If settlers for the Northwest are wanted they can only be secured by laying before the people who have the industry, experience, capital and ambition necessary to enable them to make a success of farming in the Northwest, the advantages offered by the country. To such people a trifling reduction in the cost of transport matters little in these days when the regular rates for long distance transport are so cheap. The true immigration policy is to make the conditions in the country as favorable as possible and then let those conditions be known. If we can get settlers on these terms well and good, and if we cannot just now we can do without until we can. The successful immigration agent is the successful settler and the successful settler is the one who is himself possessed of the elements of success, industry, experience, capital and ambition.

At present railway rates it costs 17 cents to carry a bushel of oats from Edmonton to Vancouver. At the rate charged from Moose Jaw to Port Arthur, which must be admitted to be a fair rate to the railway company, the cost would be 8 cents. In other words the Edmonton farmer pays 9 cents a bushel more for the hauling of his oats to the best and nearest market than is a fair rate. When oats are selling at 25 cents a bushel a difference of 9 cents is a very important matter to the farmer, a matter of $90 on a thousand bushels. The odd fact is that oats are worth nine cents a bushel less at Edmonton than they should be because the C.P.R. takes nine cents a bushel more for hauling them to market than it should take.

Calgary Herald: Mr. McNamara, who has been with Loughheed & McCarter and other legal firms in Calgary for some years, will shortly leave for Innisfail where he will open an office for Mr. Greene, barrister, of Red Deer.

INFORMATION WANTED.

A farmer of Grantham, Lincolnshire, writes for information regarding the Edmonton district. The following are the list of questions:

1. Soil and climate: If suitable for stock raising, especially sheep. If good for wheat. Yearly rainfall in inches, if known. Minimum temperature in winter and the maximum in summer.
2. Markets: Would products be easily disposed of?
3. Topography: If well wooded and if flat or undulating surface.
4. Sporting: If much game in the district.
5. Indians: Are there many of them; and if workers and can be trusted for work.
6. Railways: Is it likely a railway will be built in that district in connection with Canadian Pacific.
7. And generally would a hard working young man and steady have a fair good chance of making some money.

The answers will be given in the same order and with the same numbers as the questions:

1. The soil and climate of this district are both suitable for stock raising, but especially for cattle. Sheep do well also, in small bands, but the soil being deep and black and the vegetation rank it is not the ideal country for sheep. Wheat grows to perfection and yields from 20 to 40 bushels per acre. Under 20 bushels is considered a poor crop. The weight frequently runs over 60 lbs to the bushel. It sometimes suffers from summer frost, but chiefly in low lying localities and with careless farming. The yearly rainfall runs from 6 to 20 inches. This of course is exclusive of the snow fall of winter. The maximum temperature in summer is about 85. It may touch 90 once or twice in the season. The minimum in winter is 50 below zero, although it has on one or two occasions gone lower. It seldom however goes below 40 below, and only for a short time. January and February generally have the coldest weather of the winter.

2. There is a cash market for butter, eggs, pork, mutton and wheat for home consumption and for oats and beef for home consumption and export. There was a good demand for potatoes up to the setting in of cold weather which prevented their shipment at 30c a bushel. The demand is likely to be brisk again in the spring. Beef is worth about 5c a pound dressed to the farmer. Wheat is 40c to 50c a bushel. Oats 25c to 30c. Eggs 30c a dozen and butter 20c a pound. Barley is not in much demand at present but may be before spring. British Columbia is the market for our surplus oats and beef. Southern Alberta and interior British Columbia for potatoes.

3. The country is heavily wooded in some parts in others lightly wooded and other parts open grassy plain. The surface is very gently undulating, except where broken by the Beaver Hills or by the deep valley of the Saskatchewan or the lesser valley of the Sturgeon.

4. There is an abundance of prairie chickens and ducks in the summer, rabbits in the winter and some black tailed deer. There is large game such as moose and bears not far to the north and west.

5. There are a considerable number of Indians, who live on reserves. They are peaceable and honest, but cannot be depended upon to work.

6. A branch of the Canada Pacific runs from the main line at Calgary to the Saskatchewan at Edmonton. The service given is two trains a week each way, carrying passengers, mails and freight, but this will have to be increased shortly owing to increase of business.

7. This is not a desirable locality for persons who are merely looking for employment. The country is too new and there are no large investments of capital as yet which would employ labor on a large scale. Any steady and industrious man who desires to make a farm and home for himself can do so here to the very best advantage, but he must either have some small capital before he comes or he must be willing to take chances on making enough by his labor after he comes here to start him. If his only object in working is to make wages, he can do as well in other places as he can here.

AN OBSERVER'S NOTES NORTH OF EDMONTON.

Edmonton, Oct. 8.—As a visitor to the country it may be of interest to your readers to give my experience of the Northwest Territories, especially of the districts lying in the vicinity of Edmonton and the Saskatchewan river. The greater part of Alberta, which extends from Assiniboia to the Rocky Mountains, is gently undulating, with an occasional broad bluff which strongly resembles a spur of the mountain ranges in Ireland. At rare intervals there are flat patches of prairie land like certain districts in Manitoba; but, generally speaking, there is a greater variation in the surface here than there is in Manitoba. Along the Saskatchewan the soil is the ordinary black loam, of from nine inches to two feet in depth. The land here is pretty well taken up, though there are still large unoccupied tracts owned by the C.P.R., the Hudson's Bay company and colonization companies, of great fertility, with every facility for marketing in close proximity. There is an abundance of wood for building purposes along the banks of the river; but a permit is necessary before cutting it, as it is reserved by the government, who make a certain allowance for each settler. All government land for a radius of at least twenty miles around Edmonton has been taken up, and those coming here with the intention of heading have to proceed a considerable distance from the railway terminus before being able to procure government grant. Those coming with some money, say, seven or eight hundred dollars, would be better to purchase some of the C. P. R. lands which can be got quite near to the town and at an average rate of five dollars per acre. The outlay would be to a certain extent counterbalanced by the facilities of carriage and vicinity of the market, whilst the soil is rich and fertile and capable of producing every variety of crops and garden produce. Though the system of farming followed here is mixed, each crop is remunerative of itself. It is not unusual to produce 45 bushels to the acre of wheat and 100 bushels to the acre of oats, whilst they have grown 122 bushels to the acre of oats. In the old settlement a few miles out of Edmonton, the land has been subjected to a continuous production of cereals every year for the last twenty years, and it yet produces on an average of 25 bushels of wheat to the acre. On the Sturgeon river Mr. Ingram raised 600 bushels of potatoes to the acre, and it is generally estimated that 900 bushels of turnips to the acre is an average crop. Mr. Mon, of Walker's Flat, about ten miles northeast of Edmonton, has 40 bushels of wheat to the acre this year, and has as in a garden of vegetables, including turnips, potatoes, carrots, onions, cabbage and beets as could be raised anywhere. East of this there is a fine tract of country only settled within the last two years or so; consequently, there is as yet, little land under cultivation but the strips of 10 and 15 acres that are cultivated all show the fertility. Cereals and tuber crops are very productive, and in a few places may be seen some fine specimens of fruit. Of late there has been a steadily increasing immigration to the North west from Ontario, Quebec, England, Germany and the Northern States of the Union. Unfortunately for themselves the old country immigrants are rash enough to take up government grants without first learning something about the country, its climate, method of cultivation and the best crops to grow. In addition, they are generally speaking, almost penniless, and they necessarily experience the greatest hardships for the first two or three seasons. Owing to their numbers there are little or no subsidiary means to their income and in consequence they have to eke out the first season or so as best they may. But it has been said by the greatest of economists that difficulties and not facilities make the man, and the traveller in this country soon discovers that the saying is pertinent and that the most successful farmers, both here and in Manitoba are those who began life on the farm with what was necessary to afford them food and shelter for the first year. Along the river side, farmers in the fall generally have recourse to gold mining to replenish their exchequers. Gold mining looked at from an abstract point of view is certainly very attractive but in reality it assumes quite a different aspect. Working through frost, snow and water, in the banks or bars of the river during the day and sleeping in a tent or "dig out" in the bank, wrapped up in a pair of Hudson's Bay blankets, which are coated with heavy dew in the morning, is too stern a reality to partake of the "bewitchingly romantic." Still, it affords a resource to the new settler, who can discover no other way of becoming possessed of a few dollars necessary to carry him through the winter. The average earnings of a miner or prospector is about $1.50 per day. Occasionally he may make as much as $5, but at present this is rare, as the river has been prospected and worked all over. Miners have a peculiar method of determining their wages. For instance a man is engaged for a day clearing off the gravel from the black sand in which the gold is deposited, the following day he may be engaged in throwing the black sand into a level with his machine, on the third day he is engaged putting the sand through his "grisy" and "panning out" this is, taking the amalgam. As the blanket and forming the amalgam. As the result of his labors he may obtain $3 or $4, but he estimates this only for the time he has been engaged on the third day and when asked what success he had, the invariable reply is $3 or $4 as the case may be per day of eight hours. The impression left on a stranger is that he earns $3 or $4 per day, whereas this sum is the only return he has had for three days labor. In addition to gold there are also rubies of considerable value found on the Saskatchewan, but these are only found incidentally when washing the gold. The gold is sold at $15 an ounce and the bank receives at this time of the year about $300 worth per week. The following is a list of the retail prices, furnished by various stores in Edmonton: Sugar from 8c to 10c per lb; tea from 40c to 75c per lb; flour from 82 to 83 per 100 lbs; bacon from 15c to 17c per lb; butter from 25c to 30c per lb; eggs 30c per dozen; soap 8c per 1 lb bar; salt 10c per 3 lb bag; cheese from 15c to 20c per lb; lardettes from 50c per yard; ready made shirts from 50c to $3.50; Halls frize from 50c to 90c per yard; boots from $1.50 upwards; ready made suits from $5 up; cotton from 6c up; oats 25c per bushel; barley 25c per bushel; potatoes 25c per bushel; turnips 25c per bushel; onions 82 per bushel. From these items an idea may be obtained of the cost of living in the Northwest. A general rule little difficulty is experienced in rearing a family on the outlay at the end of the first year, and this has been testified to by every person interviewed. Sheep and cattle are raised to great profit, and there is no doubt but that sheep could be raised in this country for the wool alone as a remunerative investment. That Northern Alberta has fine prospects in view is carried out by the evidence of everyone who has investigated the condition of the country, and more especially in the way of positive facts afforded by the productions of the country. As an instance showing the attractions of the country for visitors I shall quote one of many that came under my notice. Mr. Bouville, a Frenchman who lived in the States for upwards of thirty years, and followed farming in Minnesota and Dakota, took a trip to Edmonton, and though he was succeeding fairly well, was so delighted with the country that he immigrated here with his family with the view of permanently settling. As an experienced farmer and an extensive traveller, he states that he firmly believes that there is no country which has such vast possibilities in view as Northern Alberta. They can grow vegetables here better than those raised in hotbeds in Minnesota, and the average yield of wheat exceeds by ten bushels per acre what is grown in the Red River valley of Dakota, what is known as the best wheat growing district in the north of the Union. In conclusion, I wish it to be understood that my impressions are not to be taken as beyond question. In such a vast country it is impossible to generalize facts, but, as there are still large tracts unoccupied land of considerable districts I have visited north of Edmonton, the information I have gleaned is sufficient for present purposes. Reliable details may be obtained from the various companies and the government respecting the unoccupied lands in the various parts of the Northwest. L. KIRKPATRICK.

Three of the English delegates conducted through the Northwest by E. P. Leacock were interviewed in Montreal by the Gazette. Their names are Mr. J. T. Franklin, of Nottinghamshire; Mr. T. Pitt, of Devonshire; and Mr. W. H. Dempster, of Pembroke, south Wales. The Gazette says: They all seem united in preferring the Edmonton district as the most favored part of the Northwest. Someone spoke of its being a park country. "Why" said Mr. Franklin, "with a little expenditure of taste and money one could lay out a beautiful park there, equal almost to any of our parks at home. You have wooded land and prairie, rolling ground and level plains, a beautiful country in fact." Mr. Franklin was asked what his impressions of the country were. He replied: "I was well impressed with Ontario as a suitable place for English farmers, especially those who have capital; and as to the Northwest I was much more impressed with the Edmonton district than any other part of it. We find as a general rule that the agriculturists who go in for mixed farming are more successful than others. Mr. Pitt said: "I prefer the Northwest, and of that country my choice is the Edmonton district, but good land can be found everywhere. There is plenty of it. Mr. Dempster said: "I, however, prefer Edmonton, for they have the river there and abundance of coal and that would be a great advantage, in a country that is not well timbered especially. An Ottawa despatch says that Minister Foster being interviewed in regard to his trip to the Northwest, says that the people are suffering from low prices, but for all that they have abundant faith and confidence in the future of the country. They were meeting their difficulties with courage and industry. The people talked freely of their special burdens, of which they wanted to be relieved, but then they are quite willing to bear their full share of the cost of the government of the country. He did not find any free-traders among the people. The Edmonton district impressed him very strongly. There people went into mixed farming. That was better than exclusively growing wheat. Winnipeg was going ahead and the Canadian Northwest would compare with the States. Mr. Angers, who was also interviewed, spoke of the contentment of the people and the splendid reception they gave the ministers, whom they were glad to see and meet, and said that the only dissatisfaction in the west was the low price for wheat, and that agricultural implements were too high. The Farm Implement News published in Chicago speaking of the exhibit of agricultural implements at the World's Fair says: "We must frankly acknowledge that one Canadian concern, the Massey-Harris Company, with head-office in Toronto, Brantford and Woodstock, had the largest, the fullest, and the finest exhibit in the whole agricultural implement department in the World's Fair. It is hard for an American to concede so much to a foreign country, but we can do so more readily and gratefully inasmuch as Canadians are also Americans, and, on the whole, very good neighbors."

DRIVING OFF CATTLE.
TO THE EDITOR EDMONTON BULLETIN.

I would like you through your valuable to give me some information in regard to a matter which has considerably annoyed and also put me to a great deal of trouble and expense and loss of time. Some parties have driven a number of my cattle into a very heavily wooded country, from which place they have disappeared. They did not inform me of this till two weeks after. It is now two weeks since I have been looking for them and have only succeeded in finding a few head. Now, what I want to know is, can I bring this party or parties to time, or were they justified in driving my cattle away without first informing me. Their reason I believe is that the cattle were destroying their hay, which was not fenced. Is there a herd law for this district; if so, where can I find it. Hoping you will give this your consideration, which will be acknowledged by your humble servant.

RANCHER.
[The case above mentioned would seem to be covered by section 1 of the ordinance respecting the advertising of stray animals passed at last session of the Northwest assembly. The ordinance is published in full elsewhere in this issue.]

REVENUE AND PROTECTION.
Commercial.

There is a good deal of talk in these days of tariff reform agitation, about the inability of the government to lower the duties very materially, on account of the necessities of the revenue. Even some of the liberals admit that if their party was placed in power, they would not be able to reduce the duties to any very great extent, on account of the revenue requirements. Government supporters, of course direct attention to the needs of revenue as much as possible, in order to make a point in favor of high duties. There seems to be a popular mistake in confounding revenue requirements with the protective policy of the country. No doubt protectionists rather encourage this confusion of ideas, as a shield for themselves. All this is wrong. Revenue and protection should not be associated together. They are entirely different. When politicians talk about the necessity of holding on to the protective policy on account of the revenue which must be raised, they talk not to deceive their hearers.

A revenue policy has nothing to do with protection, and indeed is quite the opposite of protection. A tax levied on a commodity for revenue purposes, is not intended to keep that commodity out of the market, or the object sought would be defeated. A revenue tax is placed upon commodities which are and will continue to be imported, in spite of such tax, and a revenue is accordingly secured. A protective tax is intended to keep the articles or commodity out of the country, and if it accomplishes its purpose, it does not produce a revenue. This distinction should be kept closely in mind by the people of Canada, and Manitoba in particular, who should not allow themselves to be misled by the efforts to confuse the public by mixing the policy of protection up with the question of revenue necessities.

It is not the customs tax for revenue purposes which is most objectionable to the people of Manitoba. Our governmental expenses are great, and a few millions per year might easily be knocked off without impairing the efficiency of the service. The people are willing to provide the revenue for the legitimate requirements of the country. We are not denouncing the revenue part of the tariff at present. We must have the revenue, and let this tax remain high enough to meet the requirement of the nation. It is the tax which does not produce a revenue which is obnoxious to Manitoba. Let those who prate about the need of high duties for revenue purposes understand this, that it is the tax which brings nothing into the national treasury which the people are tired of paying.

The nature of this tax may be shown by an illustration, and no better one is at hand than that used by Mr. Martin, liberal candidate for Winnipeg, in a speech the other evening at a political meeting. He said:

"Take the question of wire nails, which were sold at $3.75 a keg. A gentleman had told him that he had a letter from a manufacturer in the United States offering to lay them down here at $1.75, the manufacturer paying the freight, and the importer the duty. The duty was $1.50 a keg, and the freight $5c. Thus, on an article that can be made for 90c the government charges $1.50."

Here is a tax that does not produce any revenue. It is a purely protective tax, in the interest of the manufacturers of wire nails. This is the objectionable kind of taxation which should not be tolerated. The duty is shown to be much greater than the first cost of the article, and the Canadian consumers are made to pay this duty; but they do not pay it to the national treasury, for revenue. It goes to a combination of persons who control the manufacture of wire nails. This is the kind of customs tax which should not be tolerated for a moment.

We have all the old arguments of struggling industries, United States making a slaughter market of the country, etc., etc.

We are placed alongside a high tariff country, and to some extent our manufacturers are placed at a disadvantage. They cannot sell in the United States on account of the high tariff of that country. They therefore claim that they should be protected in their own market. But when manufacturers take advantage of this protection to extort the full amount of the duty from the home consumer, then that protection should cease at once. There should be no need for cabinet ministers to perambulate all over the country to find out what the people want, and take a few years to think over the matter, when a robbery of this nature is being perpetrated. Action should be quick and decisive.

When protected Canadian manufacturers place their wares upon the home market at prices which correspond with values abroad, quality being considered, there is no robbery. Under such conditions, the exceptional circumstances under which they are placed, through being unable to compete with United States manufacturers in that country, gives them some reasonable claim to protection at home. Not protection for the purpose of extorting a high price from the home consumer, but protection in the claim to enjoy the trade of their own market. They could say to the United States manufacturer, if we cannot share your market, you cannot share with us. But where the manufacturer takes advantage of this protection to extort the amount of the protective duties from the home consumer, his protection should not last a moment longer. When manufacturers ask for protection this should be clearly understood, that the moment they begin to take undue advantage of the customs tax, that tax will have to go.

There are no doubt some industries which could not profitably be carried on in this country unless they were enabled through a protective policy, to charge more for their wares than imported goods of the same class could be sold for. The wisdom of endeavoring to bolster up such industries is very questionable. Better let them go at once.

News of the world by telegraph up to day of issue and from two to five days ahead of any other paper reaching Edmonton.

Controlled only by the proprietor and therefore always ready and willing to speak out for the good of the town and district.

THE BULLETIN is read more generally throughout the Edmonton district than any other paper.

If you want to do business in the Edmonton district you can reach more of the people with a less expenditure of money through the advertising columns of the BULLETIN than by any other means.

Fair advertising rates charged, and like rates to all parties.

No advertising of a questionable nature admitted if its character is known.

THE BULLETIN Printing office is second to none in the Territories. Only first-class type, machinery and paper employed. Printing of all kinds done promptly, neatly and cheaply. Call and see samples of work, and get prices before ordering your printing elsewhere.

A newspaper is not a producing industry, but if properly conducted it assists and stimulates production and progress more than any other single agency of like cost. Money spent towards the support of a newspaper is almost entirely spent within the town in which the paper is published and is therefore not lost to the business of the town.

The local newspaper represents the district in which it is published to the outside world.

Support your home paper liberally if it deserves support, so that it can give the best possible impression of your town and district as a field for immigration and investment.

There is big money for a new town in having a live and interesting paper.
